

There are a number of official retention schedules governing University records. Consequently, record retention is addressed in multiple ASU Policy Manuals and reconciling the requirements can be challenging. A separate schedule governing sponsored award records mandates the retention requirements for sponsored activity. Record retention periods for sponsored research records vary depending on the type of sponsor (Federal, state, other) and the type of record.

Each record type has a custodian charged with responsibility for maintaining the official record and ensuring its timely destruction. For sponsored research records, custodial responsibility resides primarily with Principal Investigators, Lead Units and Research Operations. In general, the party who generates a record is responsible for its retention and destruction.

Expenditure allowability rules unique to sponsored projects can result in requirements for documentation beyond what is generated for financial transactions on non-sponsored accounts. For example, CAS exceptions require written justification to deviate from direct vs. indirect charging norms; and, documentation of personnel charges should include PI authorization. Any documentation generated to meet the additional requirements unique to sponsored projects should be retained with, and for the time period applicable to, the standard transaction records.

It is also important to note that individual sponsors can deviate from these norms and specify retention periods unique to a sponsor, program, award or record type.

The Sponsored Projects Records Retention Table recaps the applicable retention period as defined by Schedule Number 999-15-20 for Arizona State University Research Operations. This schedule issued by the Arizona State Library, Archives and Public Records division on January 8, 2015 supersedes prior retention schedules under Arizona State University, Office for Research and Sponsored Projects Administration, # 999-07-15, 10/24/2007 and Vice President for Research, Animal Care Program, (12/9/1991).

1 This category refers primarily to financial records as addressed in FIN 103 for non-sponsored accounts. Generally, the party that creates the document retains the document as the office of record. For example, the Unit creates a PV and therefore is the office of record for that document. Research Operations creates a J1 to adjust F&A; therefore, it retains that document as the office of record. Financial Services (including Property Control and HR-Data Management) retains copies of some associated financial records; Purchasing retains copies of some associated procurement records; and, OHR retains copies of some personnel records.

2 This category refers to records that are associated with multiple sponsored accounts. For example, consortia documents would be Unit-retained records within this category and MOU's would be Research Operations-retained records within this category.
